

Gino was born in Manhattan New York and lived in the surrounding burrow of the Bronx and Westchester. As a yooot, Gino honed his craft in Manhattan and neighborhood establishments including butcher and fish markets, learning recipes and techniques that have been handed down for hundreds of years. Gino has acquired (that's on a need to know basis) authentic recipes from all over the country namely; Boston, Memphis, Miami, Louisiana, Texas, Cali, AZ, and Southern States.

Since New York is a melting pot of people from all over the country and world, you can practically throw a rock and hit a different ethnic restaurant. When Gino moved to Arizona he realized how difficult it was to get good home-style food, especially at one location. Gino has brought traditional home-style cooking to your neighborhood. If there is a particular food or recipe from your home town that you would like to have you can request it and Gino will do his best to make it and share it with the rest of the neighborhood as a featured dish.

Gino prepares all gravy here (that's marinara for all you Non-Yorkers), makes home-made Italian sausage, and grinds all beef and pork right here daily.

Gino insists on quality, fresh products and a great dining experience.

Gino's Mile High 7.50
Why is a Denver omelet called a Denver omelet if no parts of CO are actually in the filling? Why are bubbles round? Who cares!!! Gino kicked up this "classic" with a little southwestern smack-a-roooo. Lightly seared onions, peppers, Canadian bacon, pepperoni, seasoning, crowned with sharp Wisconsin cheddar then melted to perfection for the ultimate mile high summit. Side kicked with Gino's southwestern BBQ chipotle sauce.

John Elway 6.25
Traditional Denver Omelet (not as thrilling as the Mile High, but hey, it is what it is!), filled with onions, peppers, ham & topped with American cheese.
